GALLUP.

From the Republican.

W. J. Oliver returned from a six months' sojourn in Kansas. Miss Blake will spend the summer vacation at her home in Las Vegas, N. M.

Prof. W. H. Decker and family will visit Long Beach, Calif., during the summer vacation.

The Gallup ice plant has been shipping forty tons of ice a day during the past week. Pretty good for a little town plant.

Mrs. Geo. H. Brewster, formerly of Clarkville, but now of Prescott, Arizona, who has been visiting her brother and sister, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Brewster, of Gallup, returned to her home Tuesday.

The American Fuel company has shipped several barrels of slack from this point lately to Germany for the purpose of having it tested for briquettes. Should the return from the test prove satisfactory, the company will immediately install a plant for the manufacture of briquettes at Gallup.

Mrs. Epey and children, of Beaumont, Calif., are visiting Mrs. Wolff, who is a sister of Mrs. Epey's. The lady was accompanied by her husband, who stopped over between trains and then continued on to Iowa. Mrs. Epey will remain here until July 1st.

Colored Rapist Turned Loose.

James Lillard, the colored man who was jailed at Santa Fe some weeks ago upon a charge of attempted criminal assault, has been released from jail and told to go out "into the wide, wide world." He took this advice and has left Santa Fe for parts unknown, and for that city's and his own good. The charge against him which was not supported by any material evidence, has been withdrawn, and it was thought that his room cost the county about 73 cents per day. Hence it was considered best by the authorities as it was doubtful if an indictment could be secured, to say to him "get thee hence," and Lillard "got."

WADSWORTH ESTATE.

Claims Against It Thrown Out By the Commission to Settle the Same.

The late Wilson Wadsworth, who died some years ago in New York city, was very widely known throughout New Mexico, as he was at the time of his death the largest land holder in the territory and had extensive business connections here. He visited the territory periodically and spent much time each year in Santa Fe and in Las Vegas. In fact, for a time he had his office in the Meadow City, and that town was his headquarters. It will be remembered that he died suddenly from apoplexy and it was reported that his business affairs were not in the best of shape. The following dispatch sent out from New Haven, Connecticut, a day ago, that being the city where his estate is being administered, contains information which will be of much interest in various business and social circles in the territory. The dispatch reads: "Nearly a million dollars worth of claims presented against the estate of the late Wilson Wadsworth of West Haven, known as the 'cattle king' have been disallowed by the commissioners who were appointed to adjust the litigation, which has been dragging in the courts for years.

"Of the total amount of claims considered $255,473 was allowed and $607,497 rejected. Of the claims allowed, $211,854 is secured, but some of the security is considered of questionable nature.

"Of the individual claimants Thomas B. Catron of Santa Fe, had the largest amount, $243,107, and of this the commissioner threw out $254,919."

SMART SANTA FEAN.

Only One in the Class Knew the Lord's Prayer.

A chaplain assigned to a remote army post in New Mexico organized a Sunday school for the children of the soldiers. Until the catechisms came he had to ask his own questions. He decided to begin with the Lord's Prayer.

"How many," he inquired the first morning, "know the Lord's Prayer?" A prolonged silence. Then one little girl timidly raised her hand.

"Only one who knew it!" exclaimed the chaplain in genuine surprise; "you may repeat it, Anna."

Anna repeated it quietly and correctly.

"That was very nicely done. Where did you learn it?"

"In Santa Fe."

"Very good. Now, Margaret," to the next little girl, "can't you say the Lord's Prayer?"

"No, Mr. Gardiner."

"Twelve years old and don't know the Lord's Prayer."

"Oh, but Mr. Gardiner," said the child, never to set herself right, "I have never been in Santa Fe."—Philadelphia Ledger.

GUILTY OF EMBEZZLEMENT.

Edward Hale Embezzled Funds of County of Mora.

Late Friday afternoon the arguments in the case of the territory against Edward Hale for embezzlement of funds of the county of Mora were finished in court at Las Vegas and the case was given to the jury. At 9:30 Friday night the verdict was arrived at and announced to the court. It found Edward Hale guilty as charged. Counsel for the defense will move for a new trial and will ask that their client be permitted to give bail. The charge against Hale was in effect that he expended money for private use and the grounds for the charge were that he drew numerous checks, amounting to $2,381, against the deposit of Mora county in the First National bank of Las Vegas, which deposit was made by Paul D. St. Vrain as the deputy of Romaldo Roybal, collector and treasurer of the county. Hale was authorized by St. Vrain to sign checks against the county funds and his signature was so authorized at the bank. The checks drawn by Edward Hale for which the indictment for embezzlement was made were all in payment of debts of the P. D. St. Vrain company, a corporation in which Paul D. St. Vrain and Edward Hale, with others, were shareholders.

The defense of Hale was that he acted only as the clerk or agent of P. D. St. Vrain in the signing of the checks; that St. Vrain had knowledge of the purpose for which the checks were drawn, and that he authorized the drafts for such purposes. The court held that any use of public moneys for private expenditure by the person in whose custody they might be, is embezzlement, and the jury found accordingly.

Edward Hale is a young man who came from Missouri about a year ago and, with his father and others, bought an interest in the concern at Mora which was organized under the name of the P. D. St. Vrain company, to continue the old established business of the St. Vrain mercantile house. His interest was for five shares of the $40,000 into which the capitalization of $40,000 was divided.

Considerable sympathy is felt for young Mr. Hale, the opinion being expressed that he has been offered as a scapegoat for others more culpable. If denied a new trial his counsel will appeal to the higher court.

SAN MARCIAL.

From the Bee.

Mrs. John Gallagher and children have gone to visit Mr. Gallagher at Arkansas City, Kan.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Johnson left for a month's enjoyment of the sights at the World's fair.

Mrs. L. M. Lasey, after a pleasant visit of several weeks with friends in the Indian territory, returned to San Marcial the other day.

Miss May Crawford arrived from El Paso, accompanied by Mrs. Rebecca's children, with the intention of remaining here some little time.

Miss Kathryn Cadogan, who has spent the winter with her parents, has left for Chicago. She intends taking a trip to Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Toronto and up the St. Lawrence to Montreal, thence back to Chicago.

Rev. Ed. Lefebvre is expected to visit San Marcial in a few days when Mrs. Lefebvre will return with him to Watrous. While here it is rumored that Ed. will officiate in a drama something after the manner of two hearts beating as one.

SANTA FE.

From the New Mexican.

Grant H. Albright is seriously ill at his residence on Palace avenue. There is, however, no truth in the report that he has been stricken with paralysis.

The Santa Fe Light and Water company estimates that 5,000,000 gallons of water were used during the day in the city for irrigating lawns and orchards.

The city marshal and police magistrate state that they will prosecute to the full extent of the law any one giving liquor to the old beggar women on the streets.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Stoffer expect to start for their old home in South Bethlehem, Pa., on Friday. They will go via El Paso to Galveston by rail and from Galveston by steamer to New York city.

P. D. Powell, of New York, arrived here and will spend several days visiting his uncle, ex-Solicitor General J. P. Victory, at the Victory residence on Delgado avenue. Mr. Powell graduated this spring from Leland Stanford.

The sisters at the sanitarium complain that they, as well as the guests at the sanitarium, are much annoyed by stray dogs that prowl around the premises and make night hideous with their barking and running on the porches. Unless the nuisance is abated they intend to poison all dogs found on the premises.

Miss M. E. Dissette, accompanied by her brother, James I. Dissette, who has been visiting in the city for several days, left for Laguna, from where Mr. Dissette will return to his home in Indianapolis, Ind. Mr. Dissette was for seven years connected with one of the leading newspapers of the east and stated to a representative of the New Mexican that one of his last duties as a reporter was an interview with President Garfield.

SOCORRO.

From the Chieftain.

Miss Thomas, of Albuquerque, registered at the auditor.

Mrs. O. Chamberlain and son, P. S. Chamberlain, went down to El Paso.

E. H. Smith, of Colorado, has bought two or three small holdings about a mile north of the School of Mines.

Miss Anne W. Fitch will go out to Water canyon next week for an outing of a few weeks in that popular mountain resort.

George D. Card, of the School of Mines, went up to Albuquerque to attend the civil service examination.

G. O. Arnold, a student in one of the technical departments of the School of Mines during the past year, left for Colorado.

Dr. C. P. Blackington expects to leave in a day or two on a business trip that will take him to Chicago, Toledo, New York, Boston and other eastern cities.

Mrs. E. L. Taylor, of El Paso, arrived in Socorro and is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Smith. Mrs. Taylor is the mother of Pierre Hines, who has been a student at the School of Mines for the last three years.

W. Fleming Jones returned to Socorro from Denver. Mr. Jones made many warm friends during his visit in the city a year ago. He will now go to Lincoln county for a business visit of a few days and then return to Socorro for the summer.

Postmaster Kittrell has received from the postoffice department the pleasing announcement that his salary will be raised, the increase to go into effect July 1. This speaks well for Postmaster Kittrell's efficiency and the amount of business done at the Socorro office.

Leon Dominian, a student at the School of Mines during the past year, left for Nevada, where he has accepted a desirable position. Mr. Dominian was born in Constantinople, Turkey, and received his education principally at an American college in that city.

HILLSBORO.

From the Advocate.

Scarcely one has been recently developed in the Bigelow mines. A thorough sample is being made of the tailings dump at the Porter mill.

Robert Croves returned Wednesday from the Roswell military installation.

Harry Elliott is somewhat of a cripple these days. He ran a nail into his foot.

Miss Pauline Mayer, of Fairview, has been engaged to teach the Horner school.

Stockmen from various parts of the county report the country very dry and the loss of cattle heavy.

The new whim at the Treasure mine has been put in position and the shaft is being cleaned out.

J. W. Hiler entertained a number of his juvenile friends at the Liggett ranch one day this week.

Bishop Kendrick will be here and conduct religious services in the Union church Sunday, June 5.

George S. Lilliole and son are in from Quartzite. They report that parties there have recently discovered some very rich gold quartz.

W. J. Miller, a son of Mr. W. W. Miller, president of the Empire Gold Mining and Mining company, arrived here last week. He has employment in the mines.

Some stockmen believe they will get off lucky if they do not lose more than 50 per cent of their cattle. Sierra country is more in need of rain than forest reserves at present.

Forrest J. Kaldenberg, who spent two months or more in Hillsboro, left last Saturday for Globe, Ariz., where he has extensive mining interests. Mr. Kaldenberg while here made a careful study of the mining situation, and predicts a great future for the camp.

HEARING RESTORED.

A Boy Cured of Total Deafness at Palomas Hot Springs.

A. M. Cornell has returned from Palomas Hot Springs, and relates that a young boy about 9 years of age has been partially cured of total deafness, says the Hillsboro Advocate. The boy comes from near Alamogordo and has been stone deaf all his life until within a few days ago. Bathing in the hot water has unexpectedly partly restored the boy's hearing. His case had been pronounced hopeless by physicians who had treated him for deafness. Ordinary sounds now attract his attention, and his father hopes for a permanent cure. The boy being unable to hear, had never learned to talk, but only babbled like an infant. However, since he is able to hear he is learning to form words and to speak intelligently. His parents are Americans and will take up their residence at the springs for a time in the hope to permanently cure their little son.

Conductor Ed. Hayton of San Marcial who was on the sick list for a couple of weeks, is his usual cheerful self once again.

NOT ACCEPTED.

ADJUTANT GENERAL WHITEMAN WRITES ABOUT THE BORRA-DAILE RESIGNATION.

Colonel John Borradale, Albuquerque, N. M.

Sir:—Referring to the matter of your resignation as colonel of the First regiment of infantry, upon which no action has been taken, I desire to say that I think it would be to the interest of the service if you would withdraw the same and consent to retain your command. I fully appreciate all the reasons for your desiring to leave the service; I know it is a great tax upon your time and upon your purse, but your connection with the guard has been long, honorable and efficient, and the complications that might arise in trying to fill the position compel me to ask that you reconsider the matter and consent to remain in the service. In all probability an encampment will be held during the coming summer, at which your knowledge and experience will be invaluable in making the encampment successful in every way. Please let me hear from you at your earliest convenience. Very respectfully,

W. H. WHITMAN,

Adjutant General.

Colonel John Borradale has given very good reasons for his resignation of the First regiment of infantry, but friends have asked the adjutant general to lay aside the resignation. The colonel has the matter under consideration.

SOCORRO NOTES.

SCHOOLS HAVE ALL CLOSED—INTERESTING PARAGRAPHS.

Special Correspondence.

Socorro, N. M., May 30.—There was no special Memorial day demonstration in Socorro today in honor of the civil war. The town was quiet excepting that a fierce wind, which rose during the early morning, hurled clouds of sand through the dusty thoroughfares and across vacant lots and caused the flags which adorned many of the houses of the town and floated from the dais in Kittrell park, to flutter briskly in the breeze.

The public school closed on Friday of last week and the closing demonstration of the 1903-4 scholastic year of the School of Mines—a fancy and largely-attended ball given by the students at the armory building—occurred the same evening. Faculty and students of these educational institutions have left and are leaving, and this, in addition to the general depression of the townfolk by the pending drought, tends to make Socorro very quiet just now.

The School of Mines has just closed one of the most successful years of its career. It is an institution that Socorro and the territory may justly be proud of.

Joe Smith has opened up a drug and general business, with new depot, in the old Spurling building, and in enjoying a good business. The old store room was extensively remodeled, thoroughly renovated and painted, and presents a very inviting appearance in the interior. The concern is known as the Socorro Drug and Supply company.

Edward Price, cashier of Price Bros' banking institution, has moved his office into the rear of Price Bros' general store.

Judith Pope's chambers in the Socorro county court house have undergone extensive housecleaning and are now quite pleasant. District Clerk W. E. Martin's apartments have undergone like treatment and are comfortable and pleasant.

P. N. Yunker, of the Windsor hotel, has established a harness and carriage business in the J. G. Fitch building, formerly occupied by J. H. Hilton. Mr. Hilton has moved his business across the street opposite Price Bros' general store.

Dr. E. L. Kittrell, Socorro's postmaster, is a popular and enviable man. He is a good and worthy servant of the government. Socorro has a fine park all set in live blue grass and growing trees, which stands a monument of his industry as park commissioner. He is an active member of the school board, a position of honor much sought after. He also has the confidence of the people of Socorro as their dentist.

ARRESTED THE WRONG MAN.

This morning at 11 o'clock, on a warrant sworn to before Judge Baker, Sheriff Hubert arrested Patrick Murphy, who is one of the striking boiler makers, the latter being charged with violating the Santa Fe railway injunction, by intimidating and attempting to get certain imported men to quit their jobs at the local shops. The case came on before Judge Baker this afternoon at 2 o'clock, and it was clearly proved that the wrong man has been arrested, hence Mr. Murphy was discharged by the court with apologies from the court and the railway company's attorneys. Mr. Murphy has lived in Albuquerque many years. The proprietors of The Citizen have known the gentleman intimately since he has been here, and as the time of his arrest was doubted if he were the right man wanted. This paper is pleased to say that Mr. Murphy is a law-abiding citizen, and will not become a transgressor of the laws.

ARE NOW DIVORCED.

COUPLE WITH ROMANTIC MARRIAGE RING DOWN THE CURTAIN.

A sequel to the elopement of E. C. Jochen and Lucy Adair Scott took place yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Jochen was granted a divorce from her husband by Judge Walthall on the grounds that she was not capable of realizing her act when induced by her husband to marry her.

The woman mysteriously disappeared the following evening after the marriage and refused to be found by her anxious husband, who swore that she had been taken from him by force. That this was not the case was shown by the grand juror in the court house yesterday.—El Paso Herald.

The widow of this romance is known in Albuquerque as Mrs. L. A. Scott from Texas. She stopped several months at the Alvarado, and was reported to be very wealthy. She was dancing and several knights fell her victim during her stay here. Among them was the reformed Baron von Wilhelm of Germany. It is also whispered that a Kansas woman became so badly smitten that when the widow died of him he mysteriously disappeared. Whether he found a suicide grave or fled the country, his friends here are unable to say.

NON. EUTIMIO MONTAÑA.

HIS FUNERAL LARGELY ATTENDED AT SAN ANTONIO YESTERDAY MORNING.

Hon. E. V. Chavez, a well-known attorney of this city, who attended the funeral and burial of Non. Eutimio Montaña at San Antonio yesterday morning, returned to the city this morning. Mr. Chavez says the funeral was one of the largest ever held in Socorro county, and was attended by relatives and sorrowing friends who came many miles to show their esteem for the deceased. Mr. Montaña was a wealthy merchant and sheep raiser of San Antonio. He was afflicted with Bright's disease of the kidneys, and went to Mineral Springs, Tex., for relief. He grew much better for a couple of days at the springs, but the end came suddenly a few days ago. The remains were encoined and shipped to San Antonio, and the last rites were performed over his body yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. The deceased was about 60 years old.

AFTER WATER.

SAN JUAN COUNTY FARMERS DIGGING WELLS AND MAKING RESERVOIRS.

From the Index.

Reuben Ripley, who is drilling for artesian water on N. A. Conger's ranch on the La Plata, informs us that they have reached a depth of 175 feet and all indications are that they will strike artesian water at the depth of about 500 feet. The striking of artesian water would be of vast benefit to San Juan county and we trust that Mr. Ripley's prophecy proves true.

Dave Lewis started some teams to work building a reservoir on the La Plata and work will be pushed until completed. We were unable to find out the exact dimensions of the reservoir, but it will furnish enough water to irrigate 1,500 acres of land. With a few of these reservoirs our La Plata neighbors would have the finest farms in the county.

The Payne Bros., on the La Plata are pushing work on their reservoir. They were the first to take hold of the reservoir project in the La Plata valley and were so enthusiastic over the proposition that others followed their example and there are now five under course of construction and two more surveyed. Our country is always in need of pushers and we could use a few more like the Payne boys.

Yesterday afternoon we were informed that Fitchfield and Smith of La Plata were working on two reservoirs, one to cover an area of about twenty acres and the other an area of about twelve acres. Our informant also told us that W. L. Padack would start construction of a reservoir in the near future, that Mr. Hunt had a reservoir surveyed Wednesday, and that surveyors are at work surveying a reservoir site for Mr. Morgan. Boys you are on the right track.

Jay Turley passed through Aztec last Saturday en route to headquarters at Blanco. Although we have no authority for the statement, the smile which Jay would lead us to believe that he was successful in interesting capital to push his mammoth canal scheme on the San Juan and that operations will begin immediately. The San Juan Canal & Development Co., of which Mr. Turley is president and chief engineer is undertaking to build a canal that will water the neighborhood of 100,000 acres of arid land, which when under ditch will make as fine farming land as will be found anywhere in the United States. Mr. Turley is a practical engineer, has found a feasible route for the canal and should have no trouble in inducing capitalists to assist him in constructing the same. If Jay is successful in this undertaking San Juan county will double her population within one year after completion. Then we may consistently talk about railroads. Let the good work go on.

The machinists' big tower has been vacant since the temporary injunction issued by the United States court, says the San Bernardino Times-Index. The machinists are determined that no move on their part will be taken that can in any way give an opportunity for a charge of disobeying the injunction.

This has been an orderly strike. A comparison of the police records will show that at this time last season there were more arrests for the month of May than there have been so far this month.

"Don't think that because the strikers are seeking temporary employment elsewhere that they have abandoned the fight," said a machinist, who added: "That is only one indication that they intend to stand by the cause. There is a law of the union which makes it necessary for a member leaving one district to take work in another that he must be regularly transferred to the lodge in the district in which he is working. This law is not effective during a strike, but according to the rules no transfer during such a time can be made. Take the Union Pacific trouble for instance, and no one will deny that the machinists won, the strikers scattered all over the country. One of the stipulations of settlement was that the company should take back every man who struck and it was necessary for men to return from as far as New York. Many of them had gotten well located at distant points and didn't want to return, but the union was standing by its compact and compelled them to, or they could have been finally transferred. Many of them worked with the Union Pacific a year, or whatever the stipulated time was, and then returned to their former positions. So you see that though the local strikers drift to the farthest ends of the earth they will all come home again when the strike is settled, and the union will insist that the company take back every man who went out."

Has increased rapidly and is still going up.

How to obtain ties to maintain their roadbeds in proper condition for several years past has been a serious question with operating officials of the various railroads. The eastern railroads for some time have been able to draw only a small part of their tie supply from their own territory. West Virginia for a long time was a great resource but the tie-producing area has moved south. The great bulk of the ties now comes from the Carolinas and Georgia, whence the ties are brought north by coastwise sailing vessels.

The growing scarcity is reflected in the figures below, which are the average price per tie paid each year by a large eastern road:

	Cents.	Cents.
1898	45.1892	55
1899	49.1903	60
1900	50.1904	62
1901	56

The advanced methods in forestry which are gradually coming into vogue are arresting the reckless forest destruction in some quarters. But the results so far are feeble and not general. The solution of the problem by using a substitute for the wooden tie is often discussed. Metal ties have so far proved a failure in America because of the great weight of the rolling stock to be sustained. Under any conditions the steel tie will always be wanting in the resiliency which is so great a desideratum in both rolling stock and track.

Should it be that the electric motor will in time supersede the freight locomotive which its ponderous reciprocating parts, some part of the objection to the steel tie may be removed. There have been suggestions of ties of fibrous artificial material. The last named proposes the use of a block of wood under each rail base. Such a tie would have weight-bearing surface, structural rigidity and resiliency and would seem to be promising.

Some roads have already anticipated the trend of things and have established departments of forestry, and gone into the growing of their own ties. This plan commits the railroad to a large expenditure, but it is a wise one. However, it is believed very much could be done by a forestry bureau to co-operate with the farmers along the line, stimulating forest culture by the many agencies of education and co-operation with the railroad has at its command. The prospect of the shortage which is coming before the railroads is due to wanton and reckless waste rather than inadequacy of resources. With better husbanding of resources great things can be done.

Revolt on Island of Java.

The Hague, May 28.—A revolt that began in a village north of Batavia, island of Java, Dutch West Indies, and was started by fanatic yesterday, has been quelled by troops, who killed seventy-two of the rebels and arrested a dozen of the ringleaders.

J. A. Smith, who has been assisting in the organization of the Fraternal Brotherhood in this city, will leave for San Francisco tonight. J. M. Addy will remain in the city and have entire charge of the organizing in the territory of New Mexico. The lodge was organized April 28 and now has over 200 members.

W. F. Haddock, of the San Marcial railway boiler shops, was transferred to El Paso last week. He is a good fellow with a desire for broader experience at his calling.
